Boston law firm Anderson & Kreiger LLP announces that Michael J. Pineault has joined the firm as Counsel. Widely respected for his skills navigating complex civil and criminal litigation, as well as high profile internal investigations, Michael brings a wealth of judgment and experience to Anderson & Kreiger.

"We are fortunate that we've been able to recruit Michael to join our team," said David Mackey, Managing Partner at Anderson & Kreiger. "Michael will bring to the firm experience in white collar criminal defense, complex civil litigation and internal investigations. He's an extraordinarily talented lawyer, and we know that he will be an excellent colleague and further strengthen our ability to serve our clients."

"I am excited to join Anderson & Kreiger," Michael commented. "It is a high caliber firm that shares my dedication to providing clients with exceptional, personalized representation. The firm's attorneys also believe in their responsibility to bring their legal talent and energy to bear on matters of substantial public interest, which is important to me as well."

Michael joins Anderson & Kreiger after ten years at a litigation boutique he co-founded, where he focused on white collar criminal defense, internal investigations, and complex civil litigation. Michael's prior experience also includes three years as Deputy Chief Legal Counsel to Massachusetts Governor Deval L. Patrick; ten years as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in Boston, including as Chief of the Economic Crimes Unit; and seven years as a civil litigator at Hill & Barlow, where he specialized in business litigation, professional liability defense, and employment law matters.
